Technology in the Classroom

Today's students are constantly plugged in to technology. It is important that teachers find a way to engage them on a technology level also. Technology in the classroom is important in keeping students stimulated and engaged by using the latest and greatest digital media. Technology increases motivation and self-esteem, improves technical skills for both teachers and students, accomplishes more complex tasks, increases collaboration with peers, increases the use of outside resources, and enriches his/her learning potential.

This year, funds from the Believe in Education Drawing will be used to enhance the ability for teachers and students across the district to use technology in the classrooms. The Jacksonville Public Schools Foundation has committed $40,000.00 to improve the wireless infrastructure in the district. The Foundation funded the initial installation of wireless capability in the district 7 years ago, and the demand has grown tremendously since then. We can put all the latest and greatest technology tools in classrooms, but if the teachers and students cannot rely on using them in their daily plans, then they cannot be used to their fullest potential.
